

My Celebrations About Last Year

This process is dedicated to the king of the universe, the leader of my life...the one who is beside me now. Because you love me no matter what I do, my greatest vision is to live my life in intimate relationship with you, hearing from you and living empowered by you to build your ideal society (your kingdom) on this earth. So help me see my life through your eyes and to know what has brought the biggest smile to your face as you have been involved with my every thought and action in this last year.

Spiritually

What makes you smile the most about what has happened in the development of my relationship with you last year?

Mentally

What makes you smile the most about what has happened in the development of my mind (knowledge, wisdom, & attitude) last year?

Physically

What makes you smile the most about what has happened in the development of my physical health last year?

Financially

What makes you smile the most about what has happened in the development and deployment of financial resources last year?

Relationally and Emotionally

What makes you smile the most about what has happened in the development of my relationships with people last year?

What makes you smile the most about what has happened in the development of my ability to experience and express my emotions in a healthy way last year?

Missionally

In what ways have you seen me living out my personal and family mission, vision and values last year?

My Goals for Next Year

Now, help me see my future through your eyes and to know what would bring the biggest smile to your face as I join you in preparing for and in courageously doing the things that will build your leadership and your values (your kingdom) in this world.

Spiritually

What do you really want to see me be, do or have in developing my relationship with you this year?

Mentally

What do you really want to see me be, do or have in developing my mind (knowledge, wisdom, & attitude) this year?

Physically

What do you really want to see me be, do or have in developing my physical health and resource management this year?

Financially

What do you really want to see me be, do or have in developing and deploying your financial resources this year?

Relationally and Emotionally

What do you really want to see me be, do or have in developing my relationships with people this year?

What do you really want to see me be, do or have in the development of my ability to experience and express my emotions in a healthy way this year?

Missionally

In what ways do you want me to more fully live out my personal and family mission, vision and values this year?